MUSEUMS & ART

CHANGING THE NARRATIVE

30 May-9 June, various times
Artist Hannah Dickins collaborated with young people from Hackney organisation Rise.365 to create large-scale art. The project's focus was to challenge the perception of young people, including the prejudices experienced by sharing the creativity of Rise.365. All ages. Free. The Art House, 30-36 Pritchards Rd, E2 9AP. Info: rise365.co.uk

AJAMU: THE PATRON SAINT OF DARKROOMS
Until 2 September, Wed-Sat, 11am-6pm (9pm on Thurs)

For more than 30 years, Ajamu has unapologetically celebrated Black queer bodies, the erotic sense and pleasure as activism. He has been at the forefront of gender-queer photography, challenging dominant ideas around masculinity, gender, sexuality and representation of Black LGBTQIA+ people in the UK. 18+. Free. Autograph, Rivington Place, EC2A 3BA. Info: autograph.org.uk

SUTTON HOUSE

Wed, Fri, Sun, 11am-3pm
With a tour guide, travel through five centuries of scandal, royal dramas, deaths and terrifying hauntings.

Hear the stories of those who have called Hackney's oldest house a home since it was built in 1535 by Thomas Cromwell's right-hand man Ralph Sadleir. All ages. £8.50. Sutton House, 2 and 4 Homerton High St, E9 6JQ. Info: nationaltrust.org.uk/visit/london/sutton-house-and-breakers-yard

NO PLACE LIKE HOME

Until 11 July, Tues-Sun, 10am-5pm
A free art exhibition co-curated and led by KV Duong and Hoa Dung Clerget. The collaboration features a group of Vietnamese diasporic artists presenting works about the theme
